TTHTI Quality Policy

At TTHTI, we are committed to delighting our customers and other stakeholders with a quality of education that exceeds their expectations.

TTHTI is committed to the development, maintenance and continual improvement of a Quality Management System that conforms to statutory and regulatory requirements within the sector.

Everyone at the Institute is responsible for quality, and for the implementation of the Quality Management System.

What Area Of Hospitality And Tourism Are You Interested In?

Culinary

This area provides an in-depth study of food composition and preparation with an appreciation of nutrient preservation, food technology and food costing. Emphasis is also placed on the mastery of the different techniques in food technology and the development of professional standards and skills in the effective management of a kitchen.

Food and Beverage

This area focuses on the service of food and beverage within the hospitality and tourism industry. It is a comprehensive study of all aspects of Food and Beverage operations including the areas of wine, the art of dining, bartending and dining room service. It further expands on these fundamentals with an understanding of food and beverage cost control, financial success, service leadership, and human resource management. Study in this area gives the necessary tools to work in, operate, or own establishments such as restaurants, bars and entertainment venues, catering companies or hotel food service operations.

Hospitality

This area focuses on the study of the operating departments and functions of contemporary hotels and other lodging establishments. It covers areas pertinent to the accommodation experience of guests such as front desk operations, housekeeping, conferencing, marketing and sales, recreation and leisure activities along with food and beverage operations.

Tourism

Tourism is a dynamic and competitive industry that requires the ability to constantly adapt to customers' changing needs and desires. Customers' satisfaction, safety and enjoyment are the main focus of tourism businesses. It also covers many areas such as planning, development and implementation of tourism policies at national and international levels as well as the development and cultivation of tourist sites, attractions and trends.

Sport Tourism

This area examines the wide range of issues relevant to the management of persons who travel for the purpose of sport and sporting related activities. It focuses on the hospitality afforded to travelers for this purpose and the amenities and services that must be developed and maintained within this sector.

Event Management

Event management is an exciting and growing industry, as well as a unique career opportunity for anyone with a passion for proper planning and organizing of events. This discipline combines many facets such as research, creative thinking, organizational skills, safety and security, media relations as well as financial and accounting practices. The main focus of this programme is to impart the skills required to develop the ultimate event from conception to completion.

Baking and Pastry

The creation of pastries and other confectionaries is considered both an art and a science. This area focuses on the technical aspects of the discipline of baking such as cake decorating, dessert and pastry making as well as the skill and professionalism required to work, operate or own a successful business within this sector.
